Description	The Athy Heritage Centre is pleased to present an exhibition of paintings by the internationally renowned and locally based artist James H. Flack.
Venue	Athy Heritage Centre
Location	Town Hall Emily SquareAthy

Details	James H. Flack is known for his ability to capture the fine details and brilliance of the Irish landscape and environment in all manifestations. Opening Times: • Mon-Fri 10am-5pm • Saturday 12am-4pm • Sunday 1pm-4pm James H. Flack and his paintings are known throughout Ireland. He has been painting since his early childhood, exclusively in watercolor, and has been exhibiting his work for more than thirty-five years. As a boy he received constant encouragement from his Mother. He is a distinguished and popular teacher of painting as is evidenced by his schedule of art classes to Summer Schools and Art Groups all over Ireland. The art of Watercolor painting is deceptively difficult. James Flack's technique and control allied to his enthusiasm for his subject matter guarantee that freshness which is a hallmark of his work. James exhibits regularly at galleries and has one - man shows throughout Ireland. He is a member of the Watercolour Society of Ireland, Ulster Watercolor Society, Dublin Painting and Sketching Club, Dublin Art Society and the Association of Kildare Artists. He has exhibited in the Royal Hibernian Academy and the Oireachtas and also during the Wexford Opera Festival, the Kilkenny Arts Festival and Eigse Carlow Arts Festival. His work is represented in the Watercolour Society of Ireland National collection in Limerick University and also in public, corporate and private collections in Ireland and abroad. He has received the following Awards: O'Sullivan Graphic Award at the Watercolour Society of Ireland's Annual Exhibition 1999 – for a work of particular Distinction/Athy U.D.C for Arts and Culture for his outstanding achievements in the Arts 2000. Amanace Consultants awards at the Waterecolour Society of Irelands Annual Exhibition 2002.
